Merchants Exchange Building

The Merchants Exchange Building, located in the heart of San Francisco's Financial District and designed by legendary architects Daniel Burnham and Willis Polk in 1903, has been at the center of the City's civic, economic, political and cultural life for more than 100 years. The building's distinctive architecture, history of notable inhabitants and strategic location have made it a prominent landmark in a city known for its icons. Today, the Merchants Exchange building is also home to two of the City's most coveted private event venues: The Julia Morgan Ballroom and the Merchants Exchange Club. From U.S. presidents to business titans and entertainment legends, the City's most important events take place at the Merchants Exchange. It's history, happening here. Write your chapter.
